

AUSTRIAN ULTIMATUM MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

NOTE TO SERBIA REGARDS ARCH-
DUKE'S MURDER MAY STIR UP
HOSTILE RELATIONS.

GERMANY IN SYMPATHY

Government at Berlin Said To Be Thoroughly in Accord With Austrian's Movement—Russia Attitude Feared.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, July 24.—The grave possibility connected with the strong Austrian notes to Serbia, which virtually took the form of an ultimatum
demanding the suppression of the Pan-Serbian movement and the punishment of those concerned in the assassination of the late Archduke Francis Ferdinand, are recognized in official circles here.

Servians May Yield.
It is believed in authoritative quarters that the Servians will yield under the pressure of support from outside,
and for this reason official eyes here
are turned less toward Belgrade than to St. Petersburg, where the council of ministers is expected to settle the question of peace or war.

It was stated today that Germany
had not been consulted regarding the Austrian note to Serbia before its discovery, but that she thoroughly approved the step taken, and was prepared for all the consequences that might ensue from it.

It was pointed out that should Russia take any hostile action against Austrian, Germany would be prepared to draw
the sword in support of her ally in accordance with the terms of the triple alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy.

Strong Austrian Sentiment.
Comment in the German press today strongly supports Austria. Radical organs such as the Tagblatt and the Germania, which are usually strong touch with the financial world and
are usually strongly pacific, and the terms of the Austrian note amply justified. Newspapers, such as the Zeitung Am Mittag, and the Vossische
Zeitung, which are usually responsive to the popular sentiment, also are for Austria, and evidently still feel the influence of the assassination of the Archduke.

Austrians residing in Berlin
were instructed today to hold themselves in readiness to return to Austria and join their regiments at the shortest notice.

BUT TEN CANDIDATES FILE STATEMENTS

Campaign Pamphlet Is Not as Popular
This Year as in Former Contests.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., July 24.—The campaign pamphlet that is mailed to the voters containing political statements
of the different candidates did not prove as popular with the voters as the candidates this year. The time for the filing of the statements closed last night. Statements were filed by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris
of La Crosse, a candidate for the United States senate, by E. E. Establish of Milwaukee and Governor McGovern, candidates for the same position. Both W. H. Hutton of New London and A. H. Dahl, republican candidates for governor, filed statements. On the democratic side, J.
C. Karel was the only democratic gubernatorial candidate to file, although the officials at the office of the secretary of state were expecting a statement from Mr. Kearney, a democratic candidate for the United States senate. Three assemblymen filed statements: Charles D. Rosa of Beloit, Fred L. Holmes of Madison and R. J. Nye of Superior. The pamphlet will be mailed to 434,000 voters in the state. The statements of assembly candidates go only to the voters
within the county.

HUNT FOR BANDITS WHO ROBBED TRAIN

Posses on Trail of Men Who Made $20,000 Haul From Southern Pacific Passengers.

Los Angeles, July 24.—Deputy sheriffs were searching the hills north of Los Angeles early today for two or possibly three robbers, who held up
O. A. No. 22 of the Southern Pacific company, last night near Chasworth
park and robbed passengers of more than two thousand dollars.

The bandits dropped from the train
as it stopped at Hewitt, a small station ten miles north of Los Angeles.
A brakeman Dunbar was on the rear platform when the robbers swung around. One of the masked men arrested with a shotgun ordered the train to hold up its hands. Dunbar was forced to walk ahead of the men as they robbed the passengers.

CANDIDATES APPOINT THEIR COMMITTEES TO AID IN PERSONAL CAMPAIGN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 24.—Fred B.
Ransom of Mainfield, candidate of the Karel convention for secretary of state, has appointed O. A. La Budde
of Elgin, late as chairman and M.
J. Sullivan of Milwaukee secretary of his campaign committee.

George A. Foy, republican candidate for congress, appointed as his personal campaign committee J. H. Bradbury, Fond du Lac; George A. Gebbe, Oshkosh; W. J. Galley, Oshkosh; C.
S. Berlingame, Monticello; Ernest Greverus, Berlin; and Frank Taugher, Mantowoc. George R. Coe is secretary. Congressman H. A. Cooper, Republican candidate for renomination, has filed the appointment of Elmer E. Ottis of Racine as his campaign committee.

LEISERSON WILL HAVE NO SUCCESSOR APPOINTED; T APPOINT WORK

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 24.—According to official commission sources no
appointment will be made to succeed
W. M. Leiserson, who resigned as superintendent of the Wisconsin free
employment offices to join the United States commission of industrial relations. Instead the work of the office will be apportioned according to a different plan.

EVEN NOBILITY IS ENLISTED IN CAUSE

Women Seek to Present Petition to the King This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, July 24.—Two aristocratic nobility, Lady Barclay and the honorable Miss Fitzgerald, were arrested today
at Buckingham palace, where they made persistent attempts to present
to King George a letter written to his majesty by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst. The letter demanded a personal interview with the king and said suffrage should be given to the same
right to an interview as some military men, namely, Sir Edward Carson, Captain James Craig, John L.
on and John Edmond, who had, it was pointed out, been invited to the Buckingham palace by the king on his own initiative. The two women arrived at the entrance to the palace
this morning, carrying a large scroll
prettily draped with purple ribbon streamers. They said they had a petition to present to his majesty. The attendants, however, persuaded them
that they had no business there, and
announced their determination to remain. The police then took them into custody.

REPAIR RAIL LINE FROM MEXICO CITY

First Through Train From Capital Arrives in Vera Cruz Today—
Wrecked Lines Repaired.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Vera Cruz, July 24.—The first
through train from Mexico City since
the American occupation of Vera Cruz, arrived here today, the breach in the railroads having at last been repaired.

It brought many passengers including a large number of adherents of the Huerta regime who had taken advantage of the opportunity to leave
the federal capital before the occupation by constitutional troops.

The passengers report all quiet in the capital, and said the feeling of security there had increased on account of the reinforcement of the garrison which they believed to number about 20,000.

CANNOT TRY SCHRANK BECAUSE OF SANITY

Man Who Attempted to Assassinate
Roosevelt in Milwaukee Becoming More Insane Daily.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, July 24.—John Schrank,
who attempted to assassinate Colonel Roosevelt in Milwaukee in October, 1912 probably never will be tried on the charge of assault with attempt to kill, according to Judge A. C. Backus, of municipal court, who today received word from physicians in the criminal insane department of the state prison at Waupun, to the effect
that Schrank is daily growing worse
from a mental standpoint.

The assault charge still stands
against the prisoner and he cannot be tried until he has been pronounced insane. Should the case ever come up, the point will be raised as to his sanity when the assault was committed.

REBELS ARE ROUTED FROM HAITIAN CITY

Government Troops Take Possession
of Three Towns Forcing Rebels
to Retreat.

Cape Haitien, July 24.—Haitian government troops today took possession of the towns of Limonade, Kousmer
and Mirebalais, which were held by the rebels who retreated to Morne
and Forgerie, where fighting was still in progress this morning.

THOUSANDS OF PILGRIMS SEEK CURE AT LOURDES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Lourdes, France, July 24.—The attendance at the Eucharistic Congress
of the Catholic church, which has been in session here since July 22,
was increased today by the arrival
of thousands of individual pilgrims from all parts of the world.

Their advent is threatening complications with the hotel keepers.
When the project of a Eucharistic congress in connection with the twenty-fifth anniversary of the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes was first proposed last year, it was nearly wrecked
by the refusal of the hotelkeepers here
to grant prices necessary for such an assemblage. They were finally brought into line however and as long as the congress was only attended by the 6-000 delegates they abided by their promises. The arrival today of so many pilgrims, however, is calling for renewed declarations on the part of the hotelkeepers that make it impossible
to keep the low prices, as the pilgrims
now should have come a month later,
at which time the annual pilgrimages
to Lourdes always take place.

The pilgrims are being obliged today
to seek lodging at Tarbes, Pau and other nearby towns. The hotel keepers say they are losing business. The pilgrims are largely invalids from all parts of the world here in the hope of miraculous cures.

NEW CORPORATIONS UNDER THE WISCONSIN LAWS

Madison, Wis., July 24.—New corporations chartered: United Fruit Growers Company, Sturgeon Bay; capital, $25,000; incorporators, John
M. Perry, T. A. Sanderson and L. L.
Sibree. D. and D. Lingerie Company,
Milwaukee; capital, $25,000; incorporators, C. L. Doolittle, M. L. Danforth
and J. J. Hubbard. Edgerton Sheep
Feeding Yard, Edgerton; capital, $25,000; incorporators, C. G. Biedler,
mann, D. L. Babcock and William Bussey. Grassland Farms, Ladysmith; capital, $25,000; incorporators, Henry Lockney, M. S. Tuller, and Maria B. Fowell. Waukegan, The Twin Ports Building Company, Superior, increased its capital stock from $21,000
to $71,000, and the First National Building Company, Milwaukee, reduced from $1,250,000 to $1,000,000.

PALACE CONFERENCE UNABLE TO SETTLE HOME RULE TROUBLE

Leading Liberal Journal Acknowledges Futility of Further Efforts to Reach Compromise.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, July 24.—The fact that the conference at Buckingham palace between the leaders of the various political parties had been rendered abortive by its failure to agree on the area of Ulster to be excluded from the control of the Dublin parliament, was confirmed by Premier Asquith in the house of commons today.

The feeling was general in the lobbies in the house of commons that the Ulster conference had failed in its immediate purpose, and that no definite agreement had been reached.

The premier's statement on the subject of today's meeting of the conference was very brief. He said:
"The possibility of finding an area to be excluded from the operation of the Home Rule bill has been considered, but the conference, unable to agree in principle or in detail on such an area, brought its meeting to a close."

Discussion of the Ulster situation
lasted only forty minutes, and the members then left the palace. No statement was given out as the result of today's meeting, but it was expected that Premier Asquith would make an announcement in the house
of commons during the day.

IRATE FATHER KILLS YOUTHFUL SON-IN-LAW

New York Man Angered at Daughter's Elopement Shoots Down Bridegroom Who Announces Marriage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Haverstraw, N. Y., July 24.—In his cell in the county jail, New City,
where he was taken after he had shot and killed Eugene B. Newman,
his nineteen-year-old son-in-law, William V. Cleary, prominent in county
politics and a former town clerk,
refused to discuss the murder or
tell why he shot the young man.

Young Newman, son of one of the owners of the Rockland County Messenger, secretly married Cleary's
eighteen-year-old daughter, Anna Cleary, at Weehawken, N. J. Yesterday the couple confided in their respective mothers, and Newman was told to tell Cleary of his marriage.
It was while on this mission
that Newman was shot. He entered the town clerk's office, where Newman was talking to the men.
Newman extended his hand and said
for Cleary's blessing. Cleary, with hardly a word, fired four bullets into the man's body. He died instantly.
Cleary, who was a former town clerk,
sweethearts from their first meeting
six years ago. It was an established thing in the village that Newman was to marry Anna. His parents did not object to the marriage, but when he showed any intention to marry
the match, although it is said he did not look upon it with favor.

RUSSIAN COSSACKS STOP STRIKE RIOTS

Stern Measures Taken at St. Petersburg to Quell Disorders
Among Workmen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Petersburg, July 24.—Stern
measures were taken by the authorities today to suppress the strike riots
which have been in progress for several days in the streets of the capital during which a large number of casualties have occurred. The conflict between the police and cossacks
on one side, and the striking workmen
on the other.

Considerable leniency was shown
during the presence here of Raymond Poincare, president of the French republic, but immediately after his departure regiments of cavalry of the guards and cuirassiers arrived to assist in suppressing disorder. A squadron of the cavalry at once charged
and dispersed a crowd of strikers.

WILSON IS ANXIOUS TO APPOINT WARBURG

PRESIDENT WILL MAKE ANOTH-ER ATTEMPT TO SETTLE DIS-
FERENCE WITH SENATE.

TO FILL JONES' PLACE

Successor to Chicago Man Whose Name Has Been Withdrawn Will Be Chosen From Chicago
District.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 24.—President
Wilson has decided to make one more effort to smooth out the differences between the senate and Paul M. Warburg, his nominee, for the federal reserve board. Then he will withdraw his nomination as he withdrew that of Mr. Jones yesterday. He has been informed by senate leaders that Mr.
Warburg's nomination can be commended if he will appear before the banking committee.

The president, it became known today, will wait until he finds what Mr.
Warburg will do before choosing a successor to Mr. Jones. He is convinced about Mr. Warburg, because if his name is withdrawn, only one banker will remain on the board, while the law requires two.

Mr. Wilson is understood to be apprehensive that he may have difficulty
now of getting the kind of men he wants on the board to accept nomination. A successor to Mr. Jones, it was understood today, will be chosen from the Chicago district, and probably will be a republican. Senator Lewis of Illinois is supporting William T.
Fenton of Chicago. George E. Roberts, director of the mint, also is being supported.

White house officials said today that
speeches in the senate against Mr.
Jones had nothing to do with the withdrawal of his nomination.

The president's reply, it was said,
was, while seated on a bench under the trees on the ground of the white house, and at the time took nobody into his confidence.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR MILITARY SHOES

Select Standard Footgear For United States Army After Long Period
of Experimenting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 24.—A nation-wide
shoemaking contest, just brought to a close by the awarding of two army
contracts to the winners, produced
the most perfect military footgear
ever manufactured, according to the board of army experts who passed upon them.

It took over a year of continual and
careful experiment before satisfactory
results were reached. Countless x-ray photographs were made; the position
of the bones of the feet were noted
and the anatomy before, during and after marches were studied and compared. All this time different models were tried and theories were worked out. Finally the type of shoe was evolved which is being made in the selected shoe, its snug, instep and chance for the toes to lie as freely
and naturally as in a moccasin.

When the theory of scientifically covering the foot had been established to the satisfaction of the army experts, various manufacturers placed their plants at the army's disposal in the hope they would be rewarded with
the valuable contracts to supply the six thousand pairs worn out in a year's marching for Uncle Sam.

But the Quartermaster Corps did not limit itself to a single firm. They worked out a system of having each firm submit a sample of its shoe, and two pairs of shoes were offered by each bidder, showing the manufacturer's ability to meet specifications.

CHAFLIN RECEIVERS DECLARE A REPORT

Report on Bankrupt Firm Show Liabilities of Over Eight Million Dollars.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, July 24.—The temporary receivers for the H. B. Chaflin Company, dry goods merchants, declared
today in a preliminary report that the total assets of the bankrupt firm, exclusive of notes undiscounted, were $52,876, 354, and the total liabilities
exclusive of notes discounted of capital stock, $4,842,258. The report thus showed an excess of assets over liabilities of $4,834,101.

Summer Advertising

Sales naturally go down in summer time because cheaper things are used and there are fewer wants to be satisfied.
But wise storekeepers realize
that they can utilize the warm weather
to build business.
A customer who has a small
summer need well satisfied is apt
to remember it and return later
when desires are more important.
Up-to-date merchants go after business in definite, aggressive
way in the "full months."
Evidence of this progressive spirit will be found in the advertising in today's Gazette.
The men whose names are printed there want business and
they intend to make their advertising pay by supplying it with good service.

AMERICAN ARRESTED FOR STEALING RELIC

Wealthy Tourist Charged With Stealing Relic from Robert Burns' Cottage.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Dumfries, Scotland, July 24.—What
the defendant's friends described as being merely a case of souvenir hunting, led to a charge of theft being brought today at the police court
against David Graham Carmichael, described as a wealthy American tourist.

According to the prosecution, Mr.
Carmichael and his friends, who have made Dumfries their headquarters
while touring Scotland, visited the Robert Burns cottage in Ayre on Thursday. After they had left the caretaker noticed that the brass handle of an antique bureau was missing.
A hue and cry was sent up and Mr.
Carmichael's motor car was stopped on a Dumfries street. The police declare that one of the occupants of the car threw the missing handle into the street. The building and police magistrate of Dumfries remitted Mr.
Carmichael to the sheriff of Ayre for trial.

Carmichael was assessed fifteen dollars for theft. His attorney said he was under the influence of liquor
when he stole it.

REBEL LEADERS MAY DECIDE PEACE PLAN

Washington, July 24.—Direct advices to the United States today from Provisional President Carranza, General Amilano Zapata, General Villa and other chief elements in the Mexican problem, renewed the hope of officials here for peace.

Carranza reiterated that he merely wanted an amnesty for political offenders and guarantees for the safety of the property of people who have supported Huerta.

Carranza through the American consul accompanying him manifested his readiness to be lenient with the footing of the constitutionalists, and give the desired guarantees. Villa expressed his desire to see peace established on a basis of justice and liberty, and gave assurances that he would do his utmost to restore normal conditions.

The program of peace in Mexico according to officials and other convener with the situation is this:
A declaration of a complete armistice within a few days, a withdrawal of Carranza and Provisional President Carranza.

Signing of an agreement between the two forces for an amnesty and guaranty for the protection of property.
Dissolution of the present congress
and reassembly of the deputies and
the senators elected under President
until September.

Resignation of Carranza and designation of Carranza as provisional president under the constitution.

The influence of the American government is being exerted toward such an end.

capital of the state of that name, and Manzanillo, an important west coast
seaport, have fallen into the hands of the constitutional troops under General Alvarado, said a report received here today from General Alverado at Guaymas.

LA FOLLETTE BLAMES M'GOVERN FOR HIGH TAXES IN WISCONSIN

Senator Shows How Executive Office
Is Clearing House for Bills, in An Editorial.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 24.—By inference at least Senator La Follette holds Governor McGovern responsible for the high taxes in the state of Wisconsin in an editorial in his magazine
today. The editorial is headed "Exclusive Responsibility."

"And upon whom should fall the responsibility of this wrong to a great cause and a great commonwealth?"
asks Senator La Follette.

"The executive office is the clearing house for appropriations. There is focused detailed information on all legislation pending and passed, there
the appropriations are listed, there
the aggregates are known. And there is lodged the final power in a hand to insure the passage of a proposition or to smite it with a veto, that makes an end of it. There are not associates to be argued with or convinced. There stands the executive under the constitution, a veritable colossus, with strength the equal of two-thirds of all the members of both the senate and assembly combined."

"There is no excuse or justification for this condition. Some increase in the expenses of government may be expected with the growth of state interests, and the higher cost of a thoroughly effective administration of government. But that added cost should always be met out of the steadily increasing revenues derived from corporations."

"It should never again be found
necessary to levy a state tax for general state purposes in Wisconsin."

"With all that may be said in just criticism of the high tax rate of the present year, the great body of con-stitutionalists, however, are in favor of statutes of Wisconsin in the last ten

CARDINALS TO PLAY BELOIT TEAM SUNDAY

Janesville Nine Will Again Engage Beloit Rivals at Feature Attraction to K. C. Picnic.

After an enforced idleness of three weeks the Janesville Cardinals will don the spangly Sunday afternoon and engage in a third duel with the Beloit North Ends at Yost Park, playing the feature attraction to the K. C. picnic. The building of the giant grand stand at the Association grounds has prevented the Cardinals from playing their schedule, and for nearly a month have not engaged in the national pastime.

The Cardinals do not mean that the Cards will not be in trim for Sunday's combat with the Beloit man, for the Cards in the inactivity have been pulling at their leath to get on the diamond again. In the first game of the season the Janesville nine trounced the Beloit ends badly while the Beloit nine had something on the Cards in a game played at Beloit. Sunday's game will play off the rubber and the local players are out for the bacon.

The Beloit North Ends have been going at a merry pace down in Beloit, taking the long end of the scores in matches with strong nines from both Wisconsin and Illinois.

The Cardinal lineup has not been ascrained, but will probably contain Campbell and Lenahan with the local players.

Sport Snap Shots

In spite of all the talk heard a month ago about the major league clubs retaining all the talent and the higher class minors being embarrassed as a result, it is likely that not one major league club today is carrying more than the twenty-five men, formerly the limit at this time of the year, while some of them, notably the Philadelphia Athletics, have less than twenty on the payroll. Where is the surplus? Probably in the Federal league.

Mike Kahoe, the Senator's scout, reports that the present is the worst season for bush league recruits that he has ever encountered. Many other scouts agree with him. "I have seen plenty returned to the major leagues through the southern leagues and I failed to see a thing that would awaken the slightest interest. The 1914 crop is the worst I have seen since I've been in the scouting business."

Charley Bold, the young St. Louis first baseman who broke an ankle early in the season, is now recovered and ready for work. During the training season and in the first few games he took part in Bold showed a large amount of class with the Browns. Ricker feels sure that Bold will add a great deal of strength to his team.

Freddy Welsh should let well enough alone. Now he threatens to write and force upon the unsuspecting public the history of his life. If he does carry out his threat we'll bet he omits the chapter which would tell of the days when he was beating his way on freight trains out to the Dakota wheat fields.

Harry Kingman came all the way from the Pacific coast to find that Clark Griffith didn't want him after all. Kingman had been strongly recommended to Griffith by Frank Dillon, who declared that his protégé was a young first baseman of more than usual class. But it appears that the Old Fox was not impressed. Frank Chace, the Yank chief, has taken a chance with Kingman, feeling, perhaps, that you never can tell.

In a game at London in the Canadian league, First Baseman Bierbauer of London had but one chance—a put-out. This leads some one to inquire if a first baseman ever went through innings without a chance.

Nick Altrock, the Senators' coach, seems to find the married state very agreeable. He was married the last of June and he's just as frisky and ambitious as ever.

John L. Sullivan says that Jack Johnson is a whole lot clever and a much better fighter than he is given credit for. That's enough, John, that's enough.

Honors More Than E. C. The person—"Lottie, don't you know I'm wrong to worry your mother so?" Little Lottie—"Ruh! You don't know mamma! She worries me more than I worry her."

AMUSEMENTS

APOLLO THEATRE.

Vaudeville patrons who enjoy witnessing the unexcelled skill of Japanese performers, will find pleasure in the exhibition of head and wire walking that is being presented by the Nikko Japs at the Apollo this week. There are two men and a girl in the act, which is quite a novelty. With them are two other acts. Monahan and Monahan present what they term a "regular old hot time minstrel act." Gus Andrews combines artistic work on a concertina with comedy that is original.

JANESVILLE GOLFERS LOST IN MATCH GAME

Defeated by Blue Mound Country Club of Milwaukee on Thursday.—Most Enjoyable Day.

While the golfers who made the journey to Milwaukee Thursday by special car to play the second contest of the season with the Blue Mound Country Club of that city, lost the match by a score of 37 to 19, they enjoyed a most pleasant day, the Milwaukee club doing everything in their power to make their guests at home. The party traveled in a special chair car on the St. Paul road, leaving Janesville shortly after six in the morning and returned on the evening train. The score of the play was as follows:

TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO START AT ONCE

PRELIMINARY EVENT AT Y. M. C. A. GROUNDS TO BE CONCLUDED IN TWO WEEKS.

TWO DIVISIONS MADE

Class A Includes Experienced Men, and Class B, Second Raters—Rules and Schedule Complete.

The Y. M. C. A. Tennis club have now arranged for their first tournament to be a preliminary one, and to be played off within the next two weeks. Because of there being so many experienced and inexperienced players, it was thought advisable to have two divisions in the first tournament. Class A includes all players who are whirlywinds, or next to whirlywinds, and who have had a good deal of experience. They will play off their division by themselves. The inexperienced class, or Division B, will be played off in a similar manner. In this way the outlook for future championship teams representing the club, to go against outside clubs, can be determined. A survey of the men is to be made from this event, in hopes of making future prospects bright.

The rules of the club have been formulated, and are of importance to every player. They are as follows:

1. The player first winning two sets is the winner of the match played.
2. All matches must be played on or before the dates now indicated on the schedule or which may be later indicated there by the committee. In case it is impossible to play off the matches by the dates set, on account of inclement weather or any other good reason, the committee will grant an extension of time. Failure of opponents to make arrangements to meet will not be considered sufficient reason for postponement.
3. The player whose name occurs first alphabetically is expected to call up his opponent and make arrangements for playing off the match.
4. If the player whose duty it is to call up his opponent fails to do so before the time in which the matches are required to be played, he shall forfeit the match. If either player declares himself unwilling to play the match the player so declaring himself shall forfeit the match.
5. Whether by forfeit or by playing, is expected to enter his name on the score card posted at the Y. M. C. A. together with the score of the match, or if a forfeit, that fact is to be entered.
6. Winners of matches are expected to keep track of the other matches so as to see who will be their next opponent.
7. Any question should be referred to J. C. Kline or H. J. Lovjoy.

Note.—Players are requested to make arrangements to play their matches as soon as possible. Out of fairness to their opponents, each player should call up his opponent at an early date so that a convenient time for playing the matches can be arranged.

Big Ed Walsh, iron man and pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, has surprised the fans with the speed and cleverness he has shown in the few games he has pitched in this season. It had generally been supposed that Walsh was due for a drop to the minors, but his performances during July have shown him to possess much of his old-time form.

The schedule as divided in two divisions is as follows: Class A, experienced players: H. F. Carpenter, A. E. Matheson, Charles E. Tallman, J. C. Kline, Dr. F. G. Wolcott, F. H. Jackman, Webster Kopp, Albert Huebel, J. S. Taylor, Rev. J. C. Hazen, S. M. Smith, W. Brewer, H. Stowe, Lovejoy, Dr. S. F. Richards. The winners of the first and second matches will play, and so on throughout the list. L. A. Markham, an extra man, will play the winner of the Lovejoy-Richards match in the second round. He drew the lucky number in the shuffle. Class B, inexperienced players: H. McNamara, A. Lansder, William McNell, P. Lovejoy, Troy Allen-William Sullivan, Ralph Souman-Frank C. Birmingham, Rev. George Edwin Parise-George O. Buchholz, Maurice L. Weirick-Lesslie Baller, Bruce W. Vetriss-Stanley Yonce, Rollo Dobson-O. R. Baines. Play will be in the same order as in the Class A list.

FREDDIE'LL HAVE PRETTY BUSY TIME DEFENDING THAT LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE

Freddie Welsh will be a busy little person during the next year or so defending the lightweight title. Willie Ritchie will meet him again; Jack Britton and Charley White are clamoring for bouts; while Packey McFarland may seek a battle if his wife will permit it.

Public Opinion.

People say how strong public opinion is; and, indeed, it is strong while it is in its prime. In its childhood and old age it is as weak as any other organism. I try to make my own work belong to the youth of public opinion. The history of the world is the record of the weakness, frailty and death of public opinion, as geology is the record of the decay of those bodily organisms in which public opinions have found material expression.—Samuel Butler.

Belling Down a Profession.

A young fellow living in one of Indiana's small towns was graduated from the high school and looked about for some easy, yet lucrative profession. He finally decided to study medicine, and settled down in the office of the town's most popular doctor for a summer's reading. As he read he watched this busy man's hours of work. One day in the late summer the doctor came in out of a dreary rain, tired out, and a trifle cross. Glancing at the immaculate young fellow, whose heels were resting on the office desk, he asked brusquely: "Still think you want to be a doctor?" "Ye-es," came the languid answer, "but I've decided to practice only on fair days, and not go out on nights."

Moses and the Commandments.

A simple cross marks the spot which investigators of Sinai have decided is the place where Moses read out to the children of Israel the laws of God. The mountain itself must stand for the monument. Rus Suff, the elevation on which the cross stands, is wild, barren and rocky. About three hundred yards from the base of the mountain there runs across the plain a low, semi-circular mound which forms a kind of natural theater, while farther distant, on either side of the plain, the slopes of the enclosing mountains would afford seats to an almost unlimited number of spectators. Not far off there is an extensive recess which was probably used as a camp ground. No spot on the whole peninsula is so well supplied with water and pasturage.—Strand Magazine.

STEAL HAIR MATTRESS FROM MYERS' RESIDENCE

Complaint was made to Chief of Police Champion this morning that a double hair mattress valued at forty dollars was stolen from the Myers residence on South East street. The property belonged to Miss Katherine Myers. The theft was discovered this morning when Miss Myers went into a portion of the house which is unoccupied at present. Entrance to the house was gained by opening a window on the second floor, and the rear door was found unlocked. Other furniture stored in the room, including a mahogany bedstead, was not touched.

ALL SLOT MACHINES MUST GO--CHAMPION

CHIEF OF POLICE STARTS VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN TO ELIMINATE GAMBLING DEVICES.

SWEEPING ORDER MADE

Gives Operators of Gum Machines, Punch Cards and Raffle Wheels Until Monday to Dispose of Equipment.

Gum machines of all kinds and punch cards of all kinds, except penny machines, must be done away with by Monday, July 26th, or all such property will be confiscated by the police. P. D. CHAMPION, Chief of Police.

This morning Chief of Police Champion issued the above order which met with the approval of Mayor Fathens and other city officials. Until Monday the dealers will be given time to get rid of the gambling devices. Chief Champion has made extensive plans to enforce the city ordinance regulating gambling. The order comes after an investigation of the raffle boards, punch boards, penny and nickel slot machines, in which it was found the player was always the loser. Over a year ago the ordinance regulating the operation of the machines was rigidly enforced and for a period the city was free from this form of gambling. The dealers, however, gradually brought them into circulation again and for the past five or six months the police say, all forms of this petty gambling have prevailed in cigar stores, drug stores, restaurant and billiard halls. Raffle cards for sale in most of the confectionary stores and at these, as well, the new order is aimed.

Net Enormous Profit. It was found the police that punch boards, whereby persons can "take a chance" for watches, candy, jewelry, etc., for five or ten cents, net over a hundred per cent profit to the operator. Other raffle cards were based on one trade profit for the dealer, but in all cases the authorities found that the person playing the machine was heavily the loser. Complaint was made to the police by persons that boys were losing money by playing "against the house" and in pulling card hands off raffle boards.

In one case where the prizes offered on a punch board were "ten dollar watches" the value as estimated by jewelers was that the timepieces cost about fourteen dollars a dozen. The rings and lockets offered as prizes, it is alleged, were practically valueless trash. It was after ascertaining these facts that Chief of Police Champion decided upon immediate action. The city ordinance relating to gambling is section 12 of chapter 21, and reads as follows: "No person shall use any gambling device or device or use any article or device for gambling purposes, or permit any person to gamble, bet or play for money or gain, with or by means of any such device or article, in any room under his control, shall any person bet or play for money or gain with the means of such articles or devices." The police department is empowered by the ordinance to dispose of all gambling devices. The ordinance also provides that the penalty for violations of the law is a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than ten dollars for each offense, and each day's continuance of any violation shall constitute a separate offense.

Hite Operators Hard.

The new order will cost many dealers in the city a large amount of money for their investments in the high-priced slot machines will be a total loss. It is declared that many of the machines which have been allowed to operate here are run on a commission basis, the dealer getting a high per cent of the profit besides cash value for trade chips. It is alleged some of the slot machines operated here were put in under the pretense that the player was obtaining a package of gum at every play. Investigation showed that few of the machines were giving out gum and in several cases where there is gum exposed in the machine a slide takes it back into the machine. The player is to take the gum out of the bottom of the machine before playing the device again. Once a person attempts to cheat some of the gum given by the machine, it is claimed, is the last time he experiments with the machine. Special attention will also be paid by the police to the penny slot machines where cards are set on a wheel and the player obtains a card for every play. An estimated fifty per cent profit is declared a small amount of the amount gained by the dealer from these machines. On Monday Chief Champion is prepared to seal up the machines in the city and to declare today that all violators will be brought into court.

STORM DURING NIGHT WAS A SEVERE ONE

Entire County Visited By Electrical Display That Did Much Damage. —Second Storm Friday Morning.

Rock county and Janesville, was visited by a severe electrical storm Thursday night and early Friday that was unusual in its display of electricity. The reports from several parts of the county show that considerable damage was done and during the night several burning structures or hay piles were noticed, the location of which have not been yet determined or any report made Friday morning the city was visited by a second electrical storm that for a time looked very much like one of the tornado variety. At the Fesson Farm, six miles east of Oxford, the town of Newark, the lightning struck a large barn shortly after one, burned it to the ground, a tobacco shed, thirty-five feet long and twenty feet wide, and farm machinery meeting a similar fate. The flames did not spread to the house however, which stands at some distance. The barn was an entirely new structure, completed less than a month ago, and was modern in every respect.

WORLD PEACE THROUGH COMMERCIAL ENTENTE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Paris, July 24.—Through years of effort and travel on the part of two Americans, Edward Albert Filene, of Boston, and John H. Bailey, of Boston and Washington, D. C., an international commercial entente has just been reached which, in the opinion of diplomats here, may prove in the future to be one of the greatest powers for world peace ever devised. On the theory that the commerce of nations has led to more wars than probably any other one thing, Filene and Bailey, representing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, with offices in Washington, set to work to bring about the formation of a sort of a Hague Peace Tribunal of the commercial world. They have just succeeded, and with headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, the international body of business men is now on the lookout for a man broad enough to act as "administrator." His salary will be large but Filene and Bailey say, "so must the man." Filene is president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, with headquarters in Washington, but he is a Bostonian, and a former newspaper man. Filene, also a Bostonian, is vice-president of the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, National Council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a permanent committeeman for the Sixth international congress. The two Americans have been in Europe for months working for the world's business headquarters, and they will be here six weeks longer. They have visited England, Germany, France, Italy and most other nations, talking with statesmen, diplomats, business men and speaking before business organizations.

URBAN REAL ESTATE GETS BIGGEST BOOST

JANESVILLE AND BELOIT TAKE BRUNT OF TAX COMMISSION'S READJUSTMENT.

RAISE SEVERAL TOWNS

Towns of Plymouth, Avon, Janesville, and Milton Substantially Increased—Twelve Deductions Made.

Substantial increases in the true valuation of real estate in the cities of Beloit and Janesville, fixed for the purpose of apportioning the state and county taxes, are levied by the state tax commission in their recent reading of the figures determined upon by the county board of equalization. According to the statement of the commission's findings which has been received at the office of County Clerk H. W. Lee, real estate in the city of Beloit is raised $1,102,000 and in Janesville, $862,000. The total of the increases made by the commission is $1,964,000 so that it will be seen that the two large cities in the county will bear the brunt of three-fourths of the increase. The commission made no change in the total true valuation figure as to the amount which is deducted is the same as the amount which is added.

Other increases are most heavy in four townships: Plymouth to which is added $108,800; Avon, $84,700; Janesville, $75,400; and Milton, $73,400. Magnolia also draws an addition of $51,000, and Lima of $41,200.

As for the reductions the towns of Beloit and Newark which petitioned the commission for relief from alleged inequalities in the apportionment figures of the county board, fare the best. Beloit's true valuation is reduced by $879,600 and Newark's by $451,600. The town of Fulton also gets a big reduction of $181,000. Rock is cut down $128,400, Bradford, $121,000, Johnstown $118,000, and Spring Valley $114,000. Of the cities and villages Evansville is the only one to benefit securing a deduction of $41,700.

Persons acquainted with real estate values in the county have expressed some surprise at the changes in the county board's figures which have been made by the commission. The town of Avon's increase, for instance, is considered by some to be inequitable, while some of the deductions as in the cases of Johnstown, Fulton, Rock and Bradford are said to be unjust. The increase for the city of Beloit is much larger than was anticipated although it was generally supposed that Beloit real estate was fixed at too low a figure.

The effect of the readjustment will be felt at the coming tax paying season when there will be made an addition and subtraction from the various districts of a total of $1,964,000 in taxes. Towns entitled to deductions will be given credit for the amounts which the deductions entitle them to while those that were increased must pay the difference. The tax commission has determined.

The following table gives the true value placed on each district by the county board of equalization, the increases or deductions the tax commission and the final figures as determined by the commission:

Assessment District	Value by County Board	Amount to Be Added	Amount to Be Deducted	Value by Tax Commission
Beloit	$72,200,000	$2,084,800	$2,084,800	$72,200,000

ANGLESEYS TO BE LEGALLY SEPARATED

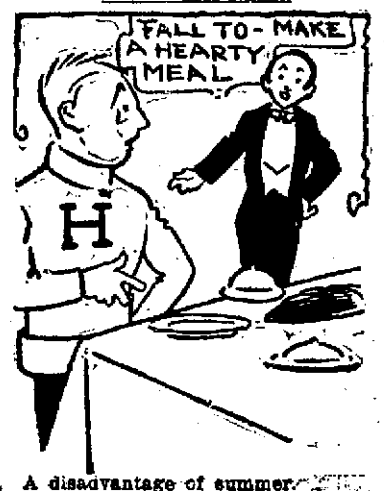

The separation of the Marquis and Marchioness of Anglesey, to which legal effect is to be given before long, is one of the saddest matrimonial breakdowns in English society in recent years. It is simply a case of unaccountable estrangement on his side. No allegation is made reflecting on either in the slightest degree. They were married two years ago and have one daughter.

Cardinals Other than Papal. England has cardinals other than those created by the pope. At one time there were officials of that title attached to a number of our cathedrals, whose duty it was to visit the sick and relieve the needy, but St. Paul's is now alone in the possession of a senior and a junior cardinal, elected by the deans from among the minor canons. One of the holders of the title in recent times was the author of the "Jackdaw of Rheims."—London Chronicle.

LAST YEAR'S CROP HAS BIG SHRINKAGE

Tobacco Dealers Discover Large Amount of Excess Moisture in 1913 Leaf.

One of the surprises uncovered by Wisconsin packers in the rehandling of last season's tobacco is the unusual shrinkage it has sustained thus far in the curing, says the Edgerton Reporter. Compared with the receiving weight at which the tobacco was paid for, they find the shrinkage anywhere from 30 to 40 per cent. In other words, the growers have been paid at good round prices for about fifteen per cent excess moisture that ought not to have been in the leaf and is a dead loss to the packer who cannot mark up his cases to compensate him for the shortage, because the tobacco is generally sold with a guarantee not to exceed the average shrinkage of other years. Just how long the packers will continue to accept high case tobacco at contract price in the light of conditions that confront them, we are unable to say. Some of them, we imagine, will be a little shy at such a proposition should it come up to them again this season. Prof. Johnson estimates that the normal moisture in tobacco ought not to exceed 20 to 24 per cent for safe sweating.

The work of examining and rehandling of packings is still going on in advance of the sampling to take place later.

There is absolutely no news of importance in the old leaf market either in the state or the eastern centers of trade. Manufacturers are buying sparingly until samples of the new crop are to be shown.

The shipment out of storage do not exceed 300 cases from this market to all points since last report.

WOMEN OF NIGERIA ADORNED WITH TAILS

Lines Are Cut Across Faces in Peculiar Shapes—An Interesting Study.

In the remote part of northern Nigeria, not yet under the complete control of the British, there dwell a people whose women wear tails and are proud of them, according to a statement issued by the National Geographic Society, at Washington, D. C. today. The statement is based on the investigations of Major A. J. N. Tremearne, who has served in Nigeria both as a police and political officer. "True it is that these tails are not of flesh and blood, but none the less they play an important part in the social life of the people, for they are the outward and visible sign of the womanly dignity," says the Society. "When a woman of the Kango, Kaji, or of four other neighboring tribes—the Atakia, Morva, Katab, or the Jaba—becomes a bride, she puts off forever the simple grade of twisted grass that, up to that moment, has been her sole adornment, and assumes the apron of leaves and the tremendously significant tail, or kunnok, as it is called.

"In each of the tribes, the kunnok varies in form, sometimes long and thin, at others short, mushroom-like and stumpy, or shaped like a long bell. These tails are made of palm fiber, plaited or bound together with string and usually stained with a red earth, which is also used for the further adornment of the lady's body.

Once the kunnok is worn quite plain, but the more ambitious modes prescribe an embellishment of brass wire and colored glass beads. The Kango women are distinguished by the Quaker-like simplicity of their attire; they wear the shortest and plainest of tails, a few beads around the neck and perhaps a really fashionable lady will add a bracelet or leglet of beads; but the kunnok itself remains in all its native severity. The ladies of the Kaji tribe, however, affect a greater elegance; their tails are of greater length, the 'stumps' being covered with intricate designs worked in brass and copper wire, while the wheel-shaped terminal is gay with colored beads set in a bed of liquid rubber of which there is a great deal in the country. In this tribe the kunnok is generally worn over a bunch of leaves or grass similar to that which the ladies of all the tribes depend from their girdles in front. Sometimes a Kaji matron who desires to be a leader in the fashionable world will wear a tiny iron bell just above the tail, but this is of rare occurrence, and the bell is not often seen.

To add further to their beauty, both the upper and lower lips of these women are pierced in order to admit a flat, round disk of work called the tichiki, which is usually about the size of a half dollar. The lips of the little girls are pierced when they are seven or eight years of age and a piece of wood inserted and worn for a time, until a larger one takes its place. The opening thus being gradually enlarged until a suit-sized tichiki can be carried without discomfort. The object of this singularly discomfiting adornment is to prevent the women from sucking dogs, which are considered the greatest delicacy by the men of the tribes.

Both sexes decorate their bodies with regular designs: the chests and backs of the little girls are scarified at a very early age. When they arrive at marriageable age, the girls undergo a further ordeal, or two sets of parallel lines are cut both on the chest and the back, and as soon as possible after marriage the head lines are made. These consist of a number of short cuts across the forehead, extending from ear to ear, and 13 long, slanting lines are cut on each cheek from ear to chin.

Expected a Real Boat Ride. A contest, for the enlargement of the Sunday school, entitled "A Trip to Palestine," had been planned by the superintendent. One mother, whose son George was a member of the school, hearing that the superintendent intended taking the scholars for a boat ride, hastened to remark, "Them can go what wants to, but I don't know whether I'll let George go or not."—National Monthly.

Gladstone's Domestic Rule. Mr. Gladstone once said that he had solved the domestic problem in this way: "Whenever Mrs. Gladstone insists I submit; and whenever I insist she submits." He didn't say, however, whether they took turns about insisting and submitting. Marriage is a failure when one of the parties insists on being the insister and doesn't take turns in submitting to the submitter.

Many Recoveries From Lung Trouble

A medicine for Throat and Lung Troubles which has been thoroughly tested for many years, and which has been instrumental in restoring complete health to a large number of sufferers, should be thoroughly investigated by everyone. While no undue claims are made for it, nor any guarantee that its use will restore health, Eckman's Alternative has been given the full credit in saving lives in many cases. Read this case:—In January, 1914, a man taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. My physician, one of the leading practitioners of Wilmington, Del., said that it was lung trouble. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. Mr. Eckman's Alternative was given day after day, and upon his suggestion I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1914. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I now have no trouble with my lungs. I am a recovered Eckman's Alternative saved my life. (Addition: Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung affections, Bronchitis, Brounchial Asthma, Subphrenic and Inappetence, the system, restoring health, and giving the patient a word or two with another human being! "It will be all off—it will be all off!" kept singing through my brain. I stood there dumb for a second, then turned and went back into the woods. There I peered through the trees and watched the man go off to the left and disappear. I never caught another glimpse of that man again until after I had come out of the forest. He proved to be a Maine guide. Afterward he told me I was a wild looking thing in my bronze skin and scraggly beard. After seeing that one human being it was worse for me than ever. How much easier it was to find food, fire and shelter than mental peace and contentment! Since getting my bearskin I had become obsessed with the idea that the same wardens were on my trail, and I worked myself up into a bitter frame

ALONE IN THE WILDERNESS

By
JOSEPH KNOWLES

Copyright, 1913, by Small, Maynard & Co.

I was now convinced that the animal was a bear cub by the way it acted. Through the dim light from my brand, which was already burning low again, I saw that the creature was black. I couldn't see clearly enough to determine the head and hind, but I felt sure that my company was a clumsy young bear. My first thought was to catch him alive. The little fellow made a sudden turn and almost dodged past me, but I hurried the brand at him and drove him back toward the fire. He was literally between two fires! As the brand struck the ground it went out. With that the animal turned and ran directly toward me. Again he tried to rush by me, but I jumped in front of him and stopped him with my legs. Then I jumped again, but in a different direction! My supposed bear cub had turned out to be a hedgehog, and for some moments I was fully occupied removing quills from my legs. My bark chaps were ample protection against briars and brush, but not against quills of hedgehogs. My third week in the wilderness was already drawing to a close. Physically I was perfectly well. I had plenty of food and a comfortable bearskin, but mentally I was suffering. It was terribly lonesome! The biggest temptation I ever had in my whole life came on the morning of Aug. 23. I was on my way to the spring and had just stepped out of a clump of bushes when I saw a real live human being kneeling down to get a drink. It was a man! I was so amazed that I couldn't move. I was just about to turn away and dash back into the timber when he looked up and saw me. He jumped back a little and stood looking at me keenly. Then, the man said, "Hello, Joe!" in a kind of hesitating manner. I had never seen him before in my life, and an almost overpowering desire came upon me to talk to him—just a word or two with another human being! "It will be all off—it will be all off!" kept singing through my brain. I stood there dumb for a second, then turned and went back into the woods. There I peered through the trees and watched the man go off to the left and disappear. I never caught another glimpse of that man again until after I had come out of the forest. He proved to be a Maine guide. Afterward he told me I was a wild looking thing in my bronze skin and scraggly beard. After seeing that one human being it was worse for me than ever. How much easier it was to find food, fire and shelter than mental peace and contentment! Since getting my bearskin I had become obsessed with the idea that the same wardens were on my trail, and I worked myself up into a bitter frame of mind concerning them. But I want to confine this particular phase of my mental suffering to another chapter. After seeing the man at the spring I hurried back to my camp and made quick preparations for getting out of that part of the country. I put everything I had in my pack, including dried berries, smoked fish and a quantity of smoked and dried meat. Then I rolled up my bearskin, placed it on top of the load and started down the trail. Fearing that the man might tell people he had seen me in that vicinity, I left a note for visitors on a tree close by the lean-to announcing that I should not return there. Then with my head down I walked and walked for miles. I don't know exactly where I slept that night in the forest, but it was somewhere with my back against a tree. The next day I threw up a shelter on the northwest side of Bear mountain, which I used as a sort of headquarters for awhile. Constantly being obliged to wage battles with myself there in the wilderness has meant big things for me, which I keenly realize now that it is all over. It opened a new line of thought I had never followed before. Among other reflections alone in the woods I thought how sympathy was wasted out in the civilized world, especially in regard to the so-called poorer class. I made up my mind that it is the middle class that suffers most. The middle class family that experiences reverses has a comparison of living—just as I had in the forest—which makes it harder to bear. Those who have known nothing but poverty all their lives do not have this comparison, for they never had anything to lose. Yet nine-tenths of human sympathy goes their way simply because the human being in comfortable circumstances allows himself to judge the man and woman living in poverty from his own plane. This thought led me on to admitting that there is more real contentment in some hovels of the very poor than there is in some of the homes of the wealthy. If I could have had just one human companion in the wilderness I would have been perfectly contented away from the luxury of the world. Human companionship is the greatest luxury I know of. My mind was starving! I began to wander farther from my lean-to, leaving it for whole days. On rainy nights I crept into some thicket to rest, while on fair ones I would pick out some tree and curl up on the ground close to the trunk. Every day I would say, "I'll stick

a place to camp. I really dreaded the night now. It brought too many thought pictures of the outside world with it. I camped under the shelter of a big spruce blowdown that night. Having an extra skin and a fresh supply of meat helped me to decide to stick it out a little longer, which I did before I fell asleep. I felt myself very close to the wild creatures. I understood them because I was living among them and had lived among them before. Whenever I chanced to come across a deer on one of the trails that deer knew instinctively the moment she saw me whether or not I had an idea of doing her harm. She understood me very quickly, and I understood her. That is why the red deer and the little white fawn that came to my spring every morning were such good friends of mine. There isn't an animal in the forest that doesn't want to make friends with man. I had a flock of partridges in the woods so tame that two of them would actually follow behind me on the trail. I used to laugh at them. They were jealous for fear one would get nearer to me than the other. Whenever one would come quite close to me the other would peck at him and drive him back. One morning I came across four or five of these birds on the lower limb of a tree. As I went closer and began talking to them they daintily sidestepped on that limb for all the world like a lot of coquettish young women. Finally I got so I could put my hand out and touch them. They knew that I wouldn't hurt them. Under such conditions I never caught a partridge. It would have been a breach of confidence. When I needed a bird for food I went hunting for one, but in such instances I never made the bird feel that I was friendly. Those partridges I was speaking about on the lower limb of that tree wanted me to touch them. They would playfully peck at my hand and dance coyly along the branch in a kind of teasing way, exactly as a woman says "no" when she means "yes." As to the deer, they will get so tame that they will come right up to your lean-to and eat out of your hand. You cannot tame deer by going to them. Arouse their curiosity and show that you will not harm them. While they are still curious they will never forget you. They see and smell you, and their curiosity will bring them back. CHAPTER VIII. Wilderness Neighbors. YOU don't have to go near any wild or domestic animal to tame it. It will come to you and live with you and sleep with you. All you have to do is simply to conceal your own curiosity. Whenever you see a wild animal in the woods go toward him carelessly. Let the creature know that you have seen him and then suddenly change your course or do something to show that you aren't apparently interested in him. Pay absolutely no attention to him. He knows that you saw him and yet went about your own business without offering to harm him. That animal will never forget you. It is not man that the wild animal is afraid of, but the human scent. If a deer, for instance, sees a man standing still in the forest and the wind is blowing in the wrong way for him to catch the scent, he thinks the man is a part of the forest just like a log or a tree, but the minute he catches the scent he is on the alert. Perhaps in his own life the human scent has meant danger to him. One the other hand, while it may never have bothered him, the human scent may have meant injury to some of his forbears and so he naturally inherits the instinctive fear. However, in that scent the animal

can see the man. He can instinctively read a man's character by his smell. This is the reason why a deer will fly from one person the moment he gets his scent, while he will stand by and watch out of curiosity another man who means him no harm. Deer and moose never fight unless cornered. Even the wildest will shrink away to the underbrush at the sound of a man's footfall. A hunger enraged wolf will never dare approach a fire. Fire is protection from any animal. All kinds of dogs will come up to me. They seem to know instinctively that I am their friend. I don't care how cross a dog is I can readily make friends with him. Don't think for a moment that you can say to any ugly dog "Nice doggy" in a voice that is quavering with fear and get away with it. The dog won't pay any attention to the "nice doggy" part, but he will scent that fear. There was one saucy chipmunk that used to come and visit me daily at my Bear mountain lean-to. He would chatter with me, fill his chops with bits of food and scurry away to bury them. Sometimes he would come around three or four times a day. He paid no more attention to me, as far as being afraid of me was concerned, than as if I were not there. One day while I was cooking some trout I heard an awful disturbance around the back of my lean-to. I investigated and found a furious battle going on between a red squirrel and my friend the chipmunk. The big red squirrel had trespassed on the chipmunk's stamping ground, and, of course, that would never do. It was a dreadful fight for little fellows to be engaged in. Around and around they tore, through the leaves, under the tangle, over fallen trunks, up the trees and down again. Occasionally they came together, and then nothing could be seen but one flying ball of fur. Getting apart again, they would rest a second, panting, before resuming the contest. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

A lunatic was being escorted to an asylum some distance away, and consequently journeyed to it by train. It was raining hard, and as they passed a large field the lunatic noticed several men grouped together. Some of them had umbrellas raised over their heads, and these were looking at two men "putting." Turning to the attendant by his side, the "soft" one remarked, "What are the people doing?" "Playing golf," answered his burly guardian. Then, said the other, after a pause, "hadn't we better stop for them?" "Johnny, I want you to go on a little errand for me." "Oh, mother, must I really? My legs ache." His mother patted the boy's head. "In that case, of course, you need not go; but thought perhaps you'd like to. You see, I wanted you to go to Mrs. Stickney's candy shop and get Little Johnny's brightened wonderfully. I think I can walk as far as that," he said. "Then you will go?" "Certainly, mother!" "And you know where Mrs. Stickney's shop is?" "Well, I have a parcel upstairs which I want you to hand in at the postoffice next door. I'm afraid it is rather a big parcel, but you don't mind carrying it, do you, Johnny?"

Reminder 1.—Pruning Raspberries. Now that the raspberry bushes have ceased bearing for the year, the old canes should be cut out and promptly burned. The new canes that have grown this year should be shortened to a convenient height for picking by pinching off the ends. This will not only keep them at a convenient height, but will cause them to send out numerous side branches, on which fruit will be borne another year.

Reminder 2.—Spraying Apple Trees. About the middle of July apple trees should be sprayed for the second crop of codling moths. This should be followed about ten days later with another spraying to catch those which escaped the first spraying. If this middle-of-July spraying has not been done, it is not too late now to catch some of these little pests, which cause wormy apples, and it is well to spray as soon as possible. The mixture should be Bordeaux, with the addition of one pound of lead of arsenate to twenty-five gallons of the Bordeaux. This will protect against codling moths and scab and incidentally against leaf eating insects, such as the taint caterpillar and the wall web-worm.

Reminder 3.—Cover Crop for Orchard. If the orchard has been cultivated as is now recommended by practical fruit growers, now is the time to sow in it a cover crop to remove the moisture from the roots of the trees so

PROHIBITION PARTY NOMINATES TICKET FOR ROCK COUNTY

Rock County Drys Hold Convention at City Hall Thursday Afternoon.—Plan for Campaign.

A county ticket was nominated by the Rock county prohibition party at their convention held yesterday afternoon at the assembly room of the city hall. Besides the endorsement of the ticket, plans were laid out for an aggressive campaign, which included the distribution of "dry" literature throughout the county.

William C. Dean of Beloit, president of the convention, was chairman, and Mrs. M. J. Townsend was elected secretary. A county executive committee was formed, composed of M. E. Kellogg, chairman, S. H. Joiner, vice chairman, Rev. H. H. Thorsen, secretary and M. Raby, treasurer.

The ticket nominated and endorsed was as follows: David J. M. McLay of Johnsonville, for sheriff; B. I. Jeffrey of Milton, for clerk of court; Barnum of Orfordville, for county clerk; George Hain of Edgerton, for county treasurer; W. W. Athon, of Johnsonville, for register of deeds; Dr. A. C. Maxon of Milton Junction, for coroner; Rev. Thomas M. North of Johnsonville, for assemblyman from first district, and Marcus S. Kellogg of the town of Rock, for assemblyman from the second district.

David L. Dobson, state manager of literature, addressed the convention on the program for distributing campaign literature through the county. The plan proposed by Mr. Dobson was endorsed by the convention and funds pledged to the support of the proposition of furnishing nearly twenty-five thousand papers and a million pieces of literature before the close of the campaign. Stump speaking in the various towns of the county was also planned by the leaders of the party in putting their candidates before the voters.

CORNS LOOSENED WHILE YOU SLEEP

Tonight put Blue-jay on that corn. From that time on there will be no pain, no soreness.

Blue-jay will gently undermine the corn while you sleep and work. In 48 hours the whole corn will come out.

Think of that when you pare a corn. Corns are utterly needless. At five cents per corn you can end them completely.

How can you know this? Ask your neighbors. Half the corns around you are being ended in this way. Or ask us for free samples. Or go buy a package of Blue-jay.

A million corns a month are being removed in this simple, painless way. And nine corns in ten require but one application.

Send to Bauer & Black, Chicago, for a free sample of Blue-jay, postpaid. Quicker yet, ask your druggist for a package of Blue-jay today, 15c and 25c. Then say good-by to corns.

NATIONAL DEBT MUCH LARGER THAN STATE

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT'S OBLIGATIONS GREATLY EXCEED THOSE OF THE FORTY-EIGHT STATES.

FIGURES PER CAPITA

For United States is $10.59 and for States $3.57, a Notable Decrease in Last Thirty Years.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The full report on national and state indebtedness and funds and investments from 1870 to 1912 has just been issued by Director William J. Harris of the bureau of the census, department of commerce. The bulletin gives information for the United States as a whole and for each state separately, and it is now ready for distribution.

According to this bulletin, the total debt of the forty-eight state governments on June 30, 1913, amounted to $422,796,222. Of this total, $403,266,889 represented funded debt, and $19,529,333 represented floating debt. Of the funded debt, $364,836,427 are represented in bonds and $38,429,462 are special debt obligations to public trust funds.

As an offsetting item against this total debt, the forty-eight states reported $76,950,571 in sinking fund assets, leaving their debt (less sinking fund assets), $345,845,651. The per capita debt for the forty-eight states amounted to $3.57 on June 30, 1913. In contrast with the debt of the forty-eight state governments, the national government had a total debt on June 30, 1913, of $2,916,204,914. Of this total, the funded debt amounted to $2,540,523,223, while the floating debt amounted to $375,681,691. Of the funded debt, the bonded indebtedness amounted to $967,366,160, while the special debt obligations amounted to $1,573,157,169. The sinking fund assets, or cash in the United States treasury available for the payment of debt, consisting of accumulated treasury funds, gold and silver and general treasury cash, not only were sufficient to eliminate entirely the special debt obligations but also to reduce the bonded debt. The national debt, less cash in the treasury available for the payment of debt, amounted to only $1,428,564,655, or a per capita debt of $10.59.

The net debt of the national government represents three times the total net debt of the state governments. Of the total per capita debt of $14.15 (national and state), the debt of the national government is $10.59, or 75 per cent, while the debt of the state governments amounts to $3.57, or 25 per cent of the total.

History of the National Debt.

The debt of the national government was higher in 1870 than at any time since that date; the per capita debt that year being $60.46. This amount, though large, was a material decrease over the debt as it stood August 31, 1865. On that date the indebtedness of the national government (less funds available for the payment of debt) amounted to $2,769,431,571, an average of $79.44 for every inhabitant of the country. The rate of decrease between 1865 and 1870 was continued until in 1880 the indebtedness of the national government had decreased so that, together with the rapid increase in the population, the per capita debt had been reduced to $15.66, at which point it remained with only comparatively slight fluctuations. Increasing somewhat during the Spanish-American war and decreasing somewhat since that date, until, at the latest date reported (1913), the indebtedness of the national government amounts to only $10.59 per capita, an amount slightly higher than in 1867, when the per capita indebtedness was $10.05, the lowest recorded.

No data are available to show the debt of the forty-eight state governments, or the territory from which they have been formed, in 1865, but in 1870 the indebtedness of the state governments, less sinking fund assets, was $352,560,358, or $9.15 per capita. The indebtedness of the state governments decreased in some of the same proportion as the indebtedness of the national government, and in 1880 the per capita debt for the forty-eight state governments was $5.43. Ten years later (1890) this had been reduced to $3.37. Further fluctuations during the twenty years brought the per capita debt down to $2.67 in 1900, the lowest amount shown in the period covered. Since 1900 there has been some increase, the per capita debt for the forty-eight state governments being $3.57 on June 30, 1913.

Population Increases.

Although there is a net decrease during the period covered in the actual outstanding indebtedness, the material part of the decrease in per capita debt, both for the national government and the forty-eight state governments, is due to the very material increase in population, amounting to 38.5 per cent in the period named. Considering the total debt of the national government and the total debt of the state governments, the total amount outstanding decreased from $2,684,036,854 in 1870 to $1,374,506,320 in 1913, a decrease of almost 50 per cent. In contrast, the per capita debt decreased from $15.66 in 1880 to $10.59 in 1913 (almost 30 per cent), the lowest point reached being in 1907, when it amounted to $12.74.

The figures in the report show that Arizona and Massachusetts are the only states where the state debt, less sinking fund assets, amounts to more per capita than $10.59, the per capita debt for the United States. The debt of the national government, therefore, is a greater financial weight upon the people of every state in the Union (excepting these two) than is the debt of the state in which they live. In only a very small number of states does the per capita state debt amount to one-half the per capita debt of the national government. New York, for example, has a per capita state debt of $6.66, or nearly one-half the cost of the Erie canal; while other states show a very low per capita debt, for Oregon it being only $0.04; for Kansas, $0.14; for Iowa, $0.16; for New Jersey, $0.24; while for Pennsylvania it is nothing, since in that state the sinking fund assets exceed the total debt.

Whole Class Guilty.
A school-teacher complained to the principal the other day that one of the big boys was flirting outrageously with the music teacher, who came in once a day. The principal spoke severely to the class and ended by saying that, out of consideration for the feelings of the culprit, he would not name him in public. At the close of the session, however, he was to come to the principal's office for an interview. Yes, you guessed it. All the boys in the class showed up.

Political Tares

By REV. JAMES M. CRAY, D.D.
Dean of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—"While men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat." Matt. 13:25.

The approach of our national holiday gives occasion for a discourse on our political situation from a Christian standpoint. This nation is a trust from God for whose wise administration we shall all be held proportionally responsible. More over the maintenance of God's honor and the progress of his truth in the earth are so affected by human governments that he is not only a weak citizen but a weak Christian who, making one in a republic, allows himself to become indifferent to its administration.

There have been those who have believed this nation to be a peculiar favorite of God. They have felt that he led thither those who laid its foundation upon Plymouth Rock. That he nerved the hearts of their successors who cemented its masonry with the blood of Bunker Hill and Yorktown. They have felt, to change the figure, that these men sowed good seed in this field, but while men slept, while we have all been engrossed in our schemes for wealth, an enemy hath sowed tares. The situation today is not the harvest our forefathers would have wished. It is not the legitimate outcome of the Declaration of Independence.

I. One of our political tares is the peculiar tide of immigration to our shores, the character of which has changed radically within a few years. Our first settlers had an inborn spirit of freedom and a past history of conquest and success, and their immediate successors, though sometimes inferior in other respects, were of kindred blood, and came from lands where the spirit of liberty and the political duties of the individual have been cherished. They have thus been easily assimilated and have helped to build up the prosperity of the country. But it is not so with reference to the present immigrants, many of whom have been down-trodden politically, and have no ideal of citizenship. We should rejoice, indeed, at an opportunity to be a blessing to them, but we should not swallow more of them than we are able to digest.

II. Another of these "tares" is the liquor traffic, lying as it does at the center of all political and social mischief, and paralyzing energies in every direction. The responsibility of Christian citizens lies in their willingness to permit it to exist, and worse still to permit it to exist for a consideration! It is impossible to destroy the appetite, but it is not impossible to deny the opportunity to gratify the appetite by law. Has not the time come for Christians who know the meaning of the Declaration of Independence, to break the shackles which bind them to a social custom, to a blind prejudice, or even to a political party, in order to serve their homes, their God and their native land in driving this rum demon from our shores?

III. Another of these "tares" is the secularization of the Sabbath day—a growing tendency to change that day from a holy day into a holiday, to convert it from a day of rest into a day of labor, to neglect the public worship of God, the sacred observance of his laws for the sake of social pleasures and business gains. Who is responsible for these things? Could secular enterprises prosper on the Lord's day if Christians frowned upon them? And has not God a controversy with us for these things? Will he not avenge himself on such a nation as this? How can we have religion without worship? And how can we have worship without a Sabbath? What can we do about these things?

(1) We can throw the weight of our exhortation on the right side. We can certainly do this so far as the keeping of the Sabbath is concerned, and so far as the liquor traffic is concerned. God would have saved Sodom had there been ten righteous men in that place.

(2) We may throw a ballot on the right side. As Joseph Cook once said: "The managing politicians care for nothing but arithmetic and, therefore, one of our supreme duties is to stand up, and stand together, and be counted." The powers that be are ordained of God, and as God's servants we are to see that his will, and not the will of Satan, is carried out in the selection of them.

(3) There is a third thing we can do, and that is pray. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. Remember Abraham's intercession for Sodom and Nemah's for Jerusalem. But alas, how little do we pray for these things! Alas for our patriotism when we are beseeching the throne of grace!

FACING INVASIONS OF THE ARMY WORM

RAVENOUS HORDES OF PESTS ARE ALREADY IN ILLINOIS AND INDIANA AND WORKING NORTHWARD.

ONCE CAPTURED STATE

Janesville Residents Remember When Trees and Shrubbery Were De-nuded of All Foliage During the Summer.

Wisconsin is in danger of an invasion. In fact, Janesville may be called upon to repel a foe, while not as deadly as a foreign army, as relentless in its destructive powers. The army worm is coming. Already traces of the advance guard have been discovered in northern Illinois and it will be but a few weeks at most before the cross the state line and reach Wisconsin.

Many residents of Janesville remember former invasions and residents of Rock county have good cause to recall the days, not so many years ago, when the little worms ate all the foliage from the shrubs and trees within a very short period.

On Their Way.
The army of the leucania unipuncta, million strong, under the command of General Army Worm Caterpillar, is advancing through the fields of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and eastern Indiana, and at the present rate of progress will reach Wisconsin in a few days.

National guards and standing army together are unable to rout the invaders. But farmers, banded into organizations of minute men armed with squirt guns charged with noxious acids are making brave stands beside barbed wire fences and discharging their weapons at the invaders as they crawl through the wheat and hay fields.

Threatens Loss of Millions.
The army of a foreign nation on a triumphant march across the country could make but little more havoc than is the army worm, which is threatening the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of grain in the eastern and central states.

Unless some measure is found which will stop the advance of the worm, thousands of acres of grain will be as bare as if the reapers had completed their labors.

The activities of the invaders have caused alarm in Washington, and the Secretary of Agriculture is sending out bulletins to the farmers telling the best means of destroying the pest and asking information regarding the progress of the enemy.

Invasion is infrequent. The force of the leucania unipuncta is not an alien one. It is always in the fields and woods, but once every few years the numbers become so large that they advance in a body across fields and woods, destroying crops, grass and foliage.

The latest reports show that the worms made their appearance at Youngstown, Ohio. A dispatch stated that the farmers around that city and in eastern Indiana reported the appearance of the worm, saying crops of the district were in grave danger of destruction.

The drought and the extreme heat of the last week is aiding the army worm in its work. It is unable to make progress across rain-soaked fields, and wet ground kills the larvae.

Derivation of Name.
The army worm derives its common name because of its great numbers in an advance across fields. It is the larvae of the leucania unipuncta, a dark-gray, yellow-striped moth of small size. The worm is about one and one-half inches long and resembles a black caterpillar, except that its body is devoid of hair.

There has not been a general report of invasion by the army worm for many years. Chicago's latest experience was fifteen years ago, when the lawns and trees in that city were almost completely stripped. Philadelphia, which is now waging a strong battle with the worm, was unmolested for fifty years. Wisconsin cities have also suffered in the past.

Milk Sterilized by Electricity.
Milk sterilized by electricity, the microbes being killed by electric shocks, is being supplied from the Liverpool corporation milk depots to about a thousand babies daily. The advantage said to be gained over sterilization by steam is that the milk tastes the same as when it leaves the cow. It is said that all contamination is removed.

Therein is the Difference.
A highbrow can retire to his study and emerge with the announcement that he has discovered a subconscience cosmos, and we call it new thought. But a lowbrow can spend five years exploring an unknown continent and claim to have discovered a new animal called the snigglebluk and we are unanimous that it is old bunk.—Chicago Enquirer.

Get Your Help Here

A little ad calling for help in the berry field brought in answer so many little boys that the owner of the field could have started the boy scout movement out of the material on hand the very first morning.

This proves two things: That our young men are eager and willing to work and that it pays to advertise.

If the average man or woman knew just how well it pays to advertise the columns of the paper would be filled with the messages of those having wants to be filled.

How much do you advertise? Are you wise enough to know the strength of advertising?

Ghastly Custom.

The medical profession has succeeded in doing away with a revolting custom that has prevailed in Constantinople for almost a century. In 1827 the authorities discovered that the Greeks were in the habit of smuggling in large quantities of arms and ammunition in closed coffins. They therefore ordered that thenceforward coffins containing the corpses of Greeks should be borne lidless through the streets and only sealed after entering the cemetery. Since that time the Greeks have attempted by painting the faces of the dead and resorting to other crude devices, to render the procedure less ghastly. They have also agitated, from time to time, for the abolition of the custom, but made no impression upon the Ottoman government until the local doctors came to their aid. The recent funeral of Constantinian V. patriarch of the Greek church, furnished a test case. After an acrimonious debate, it was decided that the coffin should be closed and the custom abolished.

The Rubber Stamp.

Filson Young admits that it is no longer thought impolite for busy persons to send typewritten letters which may not treat of business. "But there is a piece of laziness which should not be tolerated, and that is the signing of a typewritten letter with a rubber stamp purporting to give a facsimile of the sender's handwriting. This really is to reduce what is individual in the communication to the vanishing point. There is nothing to show that your correspondent has ever seen the letter sent in his name. It is the least human of all methods of communication. For my part, I decline to answer or take any notice of a document so subscribed. It has all the dreariness, and none of the honesty, of a personal circular." Mr. Young adds: "I notice that it is the members of the Thos. Chas. and Jno. brigade who are chiefly addicted to this unseemly practice."

Hint From Hubby.

Mr. Blomitt (with newspaper) — "John, what does 'wonderful' mean?" Her Husband—"It's an ailment my dollars are afflicted with."

Average Consumption of Water.

While the average amount of water used daily in the cities of the United States varies from 50 to 150 gallons per capita, there is an almost uniform consumption of a little more than half a gallon by each person for drinking purposes.

Need For Special Breed.

Above and about Hudson bay there are enormous deposits of copper, gold, and silver, but only an Indian can live there. He has grown up there as a polar bear grows up amid ice. It is thought a special breed of Indian and Chinese might meet the needs.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

WAY TO KEEP OVERSHOES ON

Pennsylvania Woman Designs Band to Fit Around Ankle With Hook Fastened to Button.

Any person who has ever had an overshoe come off while crossing a muddy street will appreciate the fastener device designed by a Pennsylvania woman to prevent this annoying accident. An elastic band fastens around the ankle and this supports a suspender-like arrangement at the heel of the overshoe. Attached to one side of the gumshoe is another elastic supporter, with a hook which engages a button on a button shoe, or a hook on a lace shoe. It takes only a few seconds to fasten the overshoe on with these devices, and it is worth the trouble. After a rubber has once come off in the mud, and it usually does this when you are going somewhere you want to look your best, there is not much use in putting it on again. The attachments are made so that they can be removed from the overshoe when not needed and quickly put on again.

Str George Darwin, noted English scientist, delivers interesting address on tides.

Str George Darwin, the noted scientist, who was the guest of the Authors' club in London recently, delivered an interesting address on his theory of the tides. Everybody knows that the tides are due to the moon's attraction. In the tidal motion the movement of the water causes friction and a consequent slowing down of the motion of rotation of the earth, as a brake would do. The effect, though almost infinitesimal, becomes appreciable in time, although it has not yet been measured. But it must exist, and this slowing down being due principally to the moon it must be accompanied by a reaction on it, with the result that the moon will move further and further away from the earth, owing to the yielding of the system. The opinion of many authorities is that the moon was shot off from the earth at the portion now filled by the Pacific ocean. As it is still moving further away and the rate of rotation of the earth diminishing the time will come when the length of the day and that of the lunar month will be the same, and the earth and moon will again revolve as a rigid body. When that occurs the day will be 55 times as long as our present day. But the sun also produces tides and similar effects, though on a smaller scale. So the year, too, will be lengthened.

Device invented by Englishman is Combination Known as "Shadow-Plate"—Directs Aeroplane.

A device, which is to direct an aeroplane in the same manner as a compass directs a ship, has been invented by an Englishman. It is an ingenious combination of the sundial and the compass, and is known as a "shadow-plate."

Its dial is of celluloid, and in the center is a small pin that throws a shadow as the light passes through, says the Popular Mechanic. When it is fixed to the forward part of the upper plane of the aeroplane, the aviator can tell the course he is taking by the variations of the shadow.

Disinfect Books. In most public libraries all books are disinfected when they are returned. They go into all sorts of places and are read by sick people in their homes and in hospitals. Hence the precaution.

Opals Expand With Heat. Opals expand with heat to a greater degree than any other precious stones. They are frequently lost because the expansion forces open the gold bands in which they are set.

Use Good English, Even if You Are a School Teacher.

(This is Lesson XIX in a series of short, simple lessons in English, by C. R. Rounds, Inspector of English, Wisconsin State Normal Schools.)

SENTENCES

It is dreadful to have to admit it, but there is one error in English that is made rather more often by teachers and students in high schools, normals, colleges, and universities, than by other educated people, and that error is a failure to use complete sentences.

The written English put up by these people isn't usually so bad, though it is sometimes bad enough, whether coming from students or teachers; but their spoken English, though it may be free from most of the grosser errors of speech that we have been considering here, is very frequently lacking in sentence structure.

It is not hard to see the reasons for this. In the first place, teachers and students are both likely to be in a hurry. The class time is short, and there is a sense of pressure and haste, that naturally results in incompleteness. Secondly, each knows that the other knows something of what the speaker is trying to say; so he is constantly tempted to start sentences and then leave them unfinished, trusting that the other will complete the thought. This habit of leaving statements unfinished is particularly apparent when teachers get together to talk over their problems. It is my firm belief that if we teachers were to talk less in a jumbled, rambling way, and say more things carefully and fully to each other and to our students, many of these problems would soon solve themselves.

Here is a fair sample of one teacher's talk: "Well, it is hard to know what to do when one—it certainly is discouraging to find—and English is so important for—but what we are going to do is more than I—." And that is not the talk of a poorly paid teacher either. Teachers! We must clean house. Let us examine ourselves. Let us not say and ah, well ah, why ah, that is, ah. Let's just STOP, and keep perfectly still until we have a thought framed that is complete and worth while. Let's know its subject and predicate. Then let's say it and stop until we get another one ready. Let us remember that it isn't necessary for us to talk until we have something to say.

USE GOOD ENGLISH

Whatever is Worth Saying, is Worth Saying Well.

(This is Lesson XX in a series of twenty lessons in English, by C. R. Rounds, Inspector of English, Wisconsin State Normal Schools.)

THE PROBLEM

Most of us do not make very many different errors in speech; we make the same errors over and over. That should be a source of some encouragement. If those who have followed these lessons will but weed out the errors mentioned here, they will have gone a great way toward gaining correct habits.

The very fact that one is trying counts for half the battle. Let no one be discouraged. The writer of these articles has had to rid himself of errors of more than thirty years' standing. Anyone who makes up his mind to do so, can get rid of speech errors.

But, of course, good use of English involves more than freedom from errors; it involves the expression of thoughts that are true and worth while. So let us strive to make our speech clean, accurate, and helpful. Let us realize that it isn't at all important or necessary that we should be talking all the time. Let us realize that silence is frequently a blessed thing, and that it is a great accomplishment to be able to listen. Then when we do speak, our words may have something of merit and worth in them, and those who hear them will be glad to listen.

A SERIES OF SHORT, SIMPLE LESSONS IN ENGLISH.

These lessons have been authorized by the Board of Regents of Wisconsin State Normal Schools, and a portion of the expense of their publication is borne by that body. The newspapers of the state, both daily and weekly, have very generously shared the expense and contributed their services, in hope of waging a successful campaign for good English. These lessons will appear once a week in most of the papers of the state.
